X As I was going through the intersection the light turned yellow. The girl in the red car was behind me and I thought to myself "that girl's not going to stop." The light turned red and the red car, making no attempt to stop, continued through the intersection. That's when in my rearview mirror I watched the SUV hit her from the side.

I was at the intersection of Call Rd and Stow Road about to make a left hand turn onto Stow Rd. The light turned green and I pulled up but had to wait to make the turn since a tan SUV was going straight. A red car blew through her red light and hit the tan SUV in the middle of the intersection. The red car never slowed down or decreased in speed for the light or when the tan SUV was in the middle of the intersection. She was also traveling at a high rate of speed, and there was no way she could have been paying attention to the road to not see a red light or a vehicle in her path.
